Eye candy

Sweet tooth? Glassmaker Aline Johnson's Eyecandy Dish (£175) is sweeter on the eye. It is handmade from fused glass, and its eye-popping shades insist that you think of boiled sweets and dolly mixtures - you can almost taste them.

Thinks . . .

A stylishly amusing way to display your treasures. Bakebean's Jay Townsend says the inspiration for this Shelf That Idea unit (£1,200) came from his love of comic books and the paintings of Roy Lichtenstein.
